WAX

Wax is a class of organic compounds that are solid at room temperature but melt easily at higher temperatures. It is typically pliable, water-repellent, and often used for protective, structural, or aesthetic purposes. Waxes can come from various natural or synthetic sources.

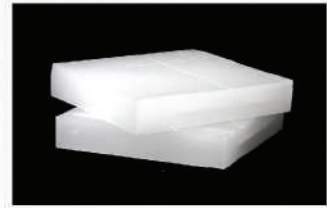

Beeswax is produced by honeybees, commonly used in candles, cosmetics, and as a coating for food preservation.

Wax has a wide range of uses across various industries and crafts such as in candle making, polishes and finishes, cosmetics and skincare and also in industrial applications wax is used as lubricants, release agents etc.
